Concept Note

Among the ancient languages Sanskrit holds a unique position. It is in this language that ancient texts like the Vedas, the Upaniṣads and the epics Rāmāyana and Mahābhārata were composed. Even to this day the glory of this age-old language has remained intact due to its vastness and novelty. In the consecutive stages of evolution it has not only led to the blooming of Bengali and other similarly younger languages but also has enriched them in many ways. H.H.Wilson once said about the grandeur of this language:

“amṛtam madhuram samyak sṃskṛtam hi tatodhikam deva-bhogyamidam yasmāt devobhāṣeti kathyate.”

The main focal point of this State-level Seminar are :

1. Contribution of Sanskrit in the Linguistic Analysis of Bengali
2. The Evolutionary History of Sanskrit and the Origin/Development of Bengali
3. Influence of Sanskrit Literature on the Literature in Bengali
